Reaping My Harvest – I'M BLESSED Health, Husband, House, and Finances – The Things I am Believing For

Hi everybody! It's time for another newsletter. I know you don't have much time, so let's get started with the most important information. First and foremost, I want to thank all of the people who have helped those who were recently impacted by Hurricane Harvey. Texas is a big state, and it has been so wonderful to see us all come together. I pray that God will bless and take care of all of those who have been displaced and bless those rescue workers and volunteers who have been helping them recover. Please keep Texas, especially the Houston area, in your prayers. And if you are in a position to help those who were displaced by Harvey with time or donations, please do so. My heart reaches out to those people, and I am sure we will do everything in our power to give them the help they need during this difficult time.

Now that we have taken the time to think of our brothers and sisters in trouble, here are a few of my personal prayer requests. Help! I am in need of a personal assistant to help me on the computer, a PR person to get me booked and busy, another volunteer to cut fabric like my friend Emily does now, and a volunteer lady driver to go with me to speaking engagements and to receive the Word from various ministries. For example, Terri Savelle Foy is holding a women's conference in Fort Worth the 13th and 14th of Oct. I am hoping to be able to attend. The event is free. I am just looking for someone who would be interested in coming with me. I am also in need of sponsors to support my ministry financially, spiritually, and physically.

For my second H, my husband-to-be, you are out there somewhere. I pray that God blesses you with me soon! I pray for you every day, and I pray that God would give you a vision of me in a dream.

As I have said before: seed-time harvest. I am in the reaping stage just before my harvest comes in. Matthew 11:2 I know God will take care of all of my needs, just like he will take care of you. As children of God, we are to be productive and prosperous. He wants us to have the best. I am still believing that God will provide for the building of my house. I am on the lookout for organizations and contractors who would be willing to donate time, labor, or finances to help get this project off the ground. Thank you so much to all of you who have donated already. For those of you who may be interested in helping financially, donations can be made through PayPal on my website www.theamazingquilter.com. I appreciate every single person who has helped and will help with the building of this house. You will all be recognized on a plaque once the house is built!

Let's not forget that the Texas Country Reporter Festival is coming up in Waxahachie on Oct. 28th. I would like to be able to bless my helpers, especially my special friend Melissa who drives two hours to pick me up and then an hour and a half to Waxahachie. Finances to cover lodging for one to two nights and meals while we are at the festival is a big prayer request right now. Your help is greatly appreciated!

I was in Nashville in July, and I was at the taping of Larry's Country Diner. As most of you know, I made a wall hanging quilt for Gus Arrandale with Springer Mountain Farms Chicken. <http://www.springermountainfarms.com> He was sweet enough to introduce me on one of the segments of the show with Bobby Bare. This will be aired Sept. 21st at 7:00 p.m. on RFDTV central time. There will be a rerun at 10:00 p.m. central time on Sept. 23rd. I am on within the first ten minutes of the show. I also got to spend some time with my web girl Debbi and her husband Clay while I was there. Oh, did we eat at an awesome restaurant! I went to Friday night at the Grand Ole Opry and stood in my spot in the wings of the stage. I stood there and cried tears of joy that I was home. I was able to spend time with Connie Smith, Ricky Skaggs, and the Whites. They all laid hands on me and prayed for me for all of the prayer requests I have mentioned above. I also met a really sweet entertainer named Meggie Werner while I was there. What an awesome night!

In August, I was able to go to the Southwest Believer's Conference with Kenneth Copeland Ministries. That was such an awesome two and a half days in Fort Worth. The most awesome thing about this ministry is the way they interact with their partners. The way they call us up and pray means so much.

Yes, my birthday is coming up on the 24th of September. I will be with fans and friends in Michigan. My birthday/Christmas list is on my website. You know me – I am always prepared with a list of ongoing wants and needs. You have not because you ask not. Next year's birthday will be a milestone, and I am believing to be married, to move into my house, and to go to Australia.

I am ready to go out to preach, teach, and travel around the world. Anywhere God sends me, I will go to do His work. I am getting my schedule together for next year, so keep me in mind when you are planning your next event. I love to do all sorts of speaking and teaching engagements!

It is never too early to get started on your Christmas shopping! Christmas will be here before we know it, and I have a great selection of quilts and other handmade items on my website. They are the perfect gifts for the holidays, weddings, and new babies.

For all of you who live in different states and countries, please remember that I am looking for a piece of fabric called a fat quarter that represents your part of the world. For example, a fat quarter with oranges from Florida or the Eiffel Tower from France would be perfect.

Remember, a ministry is supported by you – whether it's on television or in person. When you watch a television show, the commercials pay for the air time. I have heard people criticizing ministries for asking for money lately, but I think it is helpful to remember that these ministries do not get the same sort of commercial support that other television shows have. It is up to us to keep these ministries thriving.

If God has given you a vision or a dream, hang on to it. With time and prayer, it will come to pass. My dream has not become a reality yet, but I am holding on to God's promise that He will take of me, and I know that He is always faithful. If you are holding on to a dream as well, I just want to encourage you to continue believing that God will come through. Thank you for taking the time to read this newsletter. I pray that God will bless each and every one of you.

Blessings,

Diane Rose
